Notes

¹ The information published herein is subject to change. Please check with the English Language Institute. (StudyEnglish@eli.ufl.edu)

² This date is intended to allow applicants sufficient time to obtain a visa.

³ All students are required to report to the Institute for a check-in session. A $50 late arrival fee is charged to new and returning students who miss the check-in session without notifying the Institute, or who check-in but do not attend the first week of classes.

⁴ Tuition must be paid by the end of the third day of classes. If you do not pay tuition on time, you will be charged a $50 per week late fee and will not be allowed to attend class until payment is made.

⁵ Average figures include electricity, water, trash pickup and parking. They do not include nonrefundable application fees ($160 average).

⁶ Average figures include minimum estimates of books, food, medical insurance, transportation, and incidental living expenses. The University of Florida requires students to carry medical insurance. The cost of medical insurance varies in price from term to term depending on such factors as length of study, age and marital status.
