It is very difficult to be nominated for a scholarship. This means the nominees all worked extra hard this semester and achieved the following criteria.

- Full-time C semester student at the ELI.
- Academic Excellence: The student should have a 4.0 GPA and demonstrate a high level of proficiency in at least three of the four skill areas.
- Outstanding Progress: The student should display outstanding progress in language skills as evidenced by improvements in coursework.
- Excellent Attendance: The student should miss no more than ten hours of class in the semester.
- Speak English: The student should make every effort to speak English at all times while at the ELI and at ELI-sponsored activities.
- Successful Work Strategies: The student should demonstrate personal initiative in and out of the classroom, making an effort to get involved in the ambient culture through outside activities such as regular participation in Cultural Immersion activities.

Students, if you want to win the scholarship next semester, make sure to follow the same criteria and talk to the nominees or past winners to learn more ways to become an especially excellent student.

Manners & Culture

Why don’t young people in the U.S. care about their families?

A: Most young people do care about their families, they just have different ways of showing it around the world. For many young adults in the US, this is a point in their lives when become independent. Sometimes that means focusing more on university, their jobs, and for some, their new families (their spouses or their children).

Grammar

Q: What’s a phrasal verb?

A: A phrasal verb is a verb that adds another word (or words), usually a preposition, that changes the meaning of the action completely. For example, “I dropped him” is different from “I dropped him off.” In the first example, the meaning is very specific - it means that I was carrying him physically, and I couldn’t or wouldn’t hold on to him, so I dropped him. In the second case, it means that I was transporting him, most likely in my car, and I drove him to his house and let him out of the car there.

The prepositions don’t always make sense if you try to understand them alone. Each time you change the preposition, you change the meaning entirely – basically, creating a new dictionary word. The only way to master phrasal verbs is to notice how they are used and practice, practice, practice, just like you would with any other new vocabulary.

Here are some useful phrasal verbs:

- I need to make up the exam that I missed last week.
- Can I hand in my essay late?
- Put away your cell phones, please!
- I had to do my homework over because I had too many mistakes.

Q: What’s the difference between separable phrasal verbs and nonseparable phrasal verbs?

A: First there are two basic types of verbs in general: verbs that can have an object and verbs that can’t. The phrasal verbs that can have an object can be divided into two more types, separable and nonseparable. Separable phrasal verbs can have the object after the particle (the thing that looks like a preposition) or before it. If you use a pronoun instead of the object, the pronoun will go before the particle. Nonseparable phrasal verbs can only have the object after the particle.

- Verb with object: I saw a movie.
- Separable phrasal verb: I handed in my essay. I handed my essay in. I handed it in.
- Nonseparable phrasal verb: I just got over the flu. I just got over it. I just got it over.
